

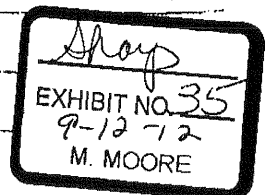

EXHIBIT 4

Mr. McDowell asked [redacted] if she could take her belt off, [redacted] said that [redacted] thought it was stupid that she has to take her belt off (Confederate flag) but guys could wear rainbow shirts. [redacted] think that's what started the whole argument. [redacted] said that [redacted] Catholic so by them wearing rainbow shirts it was discrimination. He said if [redacted] really was Catholic [redacted] would go to a Catholic School. He then continued arguing about that and ended with if [redacted] didn't like gays [redacted] could leave his room, so [redacted] picked up [redacted] bag and left.

[redacted] 10/21/10

Mr. McDowell asked Daniel if could wear her belt on. I said yes. He said she could put her belt on her belt off (Confederate but guys could wear rainbow shirts. flag) I said that's what started the whole argument. I said that in Catholic by then wearing rainbow shirts it was discriminated. He said if I didn't like it I could just go home. I said he was wrong. I said I was and ended with if I didn't like guys I could leave the room, so I picked up my bag and left.

Daniel Glawacki 10/21/10

